his advertising desk this past April.

Approximately two years ago he suffered a severe heart attack and a borough physician told him he never would be able to work again.

But the irrepressible Mr. Stetler was back on the job after an eight-week reprieve. This past April 22 he was stricken a second time and had not worked since.

Known as a "hustler" and "right guy" among his printing and advertising co-workers, the venerable, white-haired printer-ad man began a career of printing in the Gay 20s at The Pottstown Daily News, then at 17 North Hanover street.

Several years after he started work in Pottstown, Mr. (Continued on Page Seven)

KC's Lose Game To Girls, 51-1!

Players on the softball team of Father Bally council 1192, Knights of Columbus, fielded at the council's 15th annual picnic, yesterday at Palladino's Swimming Bridge Lodge, Eagleville, just didn't have a chance against a team of their ownfolk formed.

The men's chief obstacle in the game, in which the women routed the men, 51 to 1, as the remainder of the 400 persons at the picnic watched in amusement, was a "blind" umpire.

Nick A. Palladino, 23 Walnut street, "umped" wearing a pair of glasses—with adhesive tape covering the eyepieces. He called the pitches as he "thought" they had crossed the plate.

An embarrassing moment for one woman player occurred when she was introduced to a priest from Philadelphia, a guest of the council. During the game, before the (Continued on Page Six)

Weekend Has Mixed Weather

A Summer downpour left Pottstown as sticky as a mulch factory Saturday afternoon.

At 1 p. m. the storm whipped out of a black sky and chased shoppers under cover. From 1 o'clock to 1:30 the mercury contracted from 82 to 72 degrees. After the rain the oppressive humidity dominated as thermometers crawled back to 80, and the humidity topped the 90 mark.

Lightning peeled shingles off the roof of Jack Groff's Pottstown RD 3 home. Telephone and TV service were curtailed by the storm. Groff watched shingles fly from a kitchen window after a flash of lightning and accompanying crack of thunder.

Yesterday, a cool breeze blew out of the West and motorists took advantage of the rare weather for afternoon drives. Main highways were choked with a bumper-to-bumper traffic.

Today the weather will be fair and moderately warm. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy with little change in temperature.

Strike Order Is Awaited by Plant at Oaks

At 1:30 o'clock this morning, union officials of Oaks Local 281, United Rubber Workers (CIO) were still awaiting word from Cincinnati, Ohio, announcing the strike that would affect 1080 employees of the B. F. Goodrich company plant at Oaks.

Union representatives negotiating for a new contract at the company's offices in Cincinnati said that a walkout of 30,000 workers would start last night at nine plants across the country unless agreement was reached by the strike deadline set for midnight.

George G. Harsanyi, secretary of the local, said last night that if the impending strike was to last no longer than a week, only 133 maintenance workers would be affected because of the annual one-week plant repair shutdown which coincidentally is scheduled to begin today.

"All of the production employees are on vacation this week," he said, "but if the strike is still on when they get back, we'll stay out."

Boy Hit by Car, Has Head Hurt

Warren Kulp, 9, of Reading, suffered a possible brain concussion and a bump on the back of his head at 12:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile on Route 663 near Hickory park, New Hanover.

Leo Shaler, 54, of Claymont, Del., the driver of the car, told Trooper Robert E. Mulligan, of the Jeffersonville State Police, the boy darted in front of his northbound car.

The youth was treated at Pottstown hospital, where he was taken in a Boyertown Lions Community ambulance manned by Henry Bauer and John Bortz, and discharged.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Kulp Jr., were advised to take their son to a Reading hospital for X-rays this morning.

Mercury Boys Find Girls Big Attraction at Seashore

They saw the Ice Capades, visited the Steel and Million Dollar piers and lived and dined in the Hotel Monticello, but the "most interesting" sight to many of the 41 Mercury carriers who returned last night from an expense-free weekend in Atlantic City was the large number of girls on the boardwalk and the beach.

The boys, four motor route operators and their wives were treated to the trip by the newspaper as winners of a contest in which they boosted the paper's circulation 357 subscriptions.

Four members of The Mercury's circulation staff accompanied the winners.

The girls were not the main attraction for all the youths, but only one of eight queried as to the things (Continued on Page Six)

Lightning Starts $20,000 Barn Blaze

Only Fire-Blackened Walls Remain

The barn on James C. Wilke's farm, Pottstown RD 2, was completely demolished and building supplies stored there by Wilke for use in his contracting business were destroyed when fire raged there late Saturday afternoon. Men of the Philadelphia

Steam Fire Engine and Ridge Fire companies confined the flames to the one building. Property and equipment destroyed in the fire was estimated at $20,000 by Wilke. Insurance will not cover the entire loss he said.

Building Supplies Lost On James Wilke Farm

A bolt of lightning set off a blaze in a barn on James C. Wilke's farm, Pottstown RD 2, Saturday afternoon, completely ruining more than $20,000 worth of building equipment and supplies and property.

Fire Chief Richard E. Lindauer and his first assistant, Irvin Sheetz, and Olav Selwyn, chief of the Ridge Fire company examined the charred ruins of the barn and found a lightning rod which had been melted by the bolt of lightning and had hardened again in a twisted shape.

The barn had been hit at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon during an electrical storm and at 5 o'clock the fire broke out in full blast. Wilke, with his two sons, David and Roderick, and his brother, William, of Parkersburg, rushed to the barn when the flames were discovered and attempted to get all the equipment out of the fire to curb the loss, which was only partially covered by insurance.

They succeeded in getting three pick-up trucks which were parked in the barn but then they could not enter it again because the flames had spread too fast.

Wilke said they could not get close enough to the building to close the doors in order to cut down the draft on the flames.

While the men were trying to save the valuable equipment, Roderick's wife, Miriam, called the Philadelphia Steam Fire Engine and Ridge Fire companies.

Twenty minutes later, when they arrived, the fire had raged beyond control and the fire fighters pumped water on it only to confine it to the one building.

WILKE'S GARAGE and two wooden shanties which he transported to his jobs to store equipment used in construction were dangerously close to the raging barn but they were undamaged.

Two pumps from the Philadelphia Fire Company and two from the Ridge Fire company drew water from the Wilke swimming pool and pumped water from it for about two hours, lowering the water level in the 40 by 60 foot pool only six inches.

Wilke said he was lucky that it was not windy while the flames were raging and that the fire did not spread to other buildings because of this.

When the fire was under control after hundreds of gallons of water had doused it for more than two hours, the wind started up.

About 11 o'clock Saturday night Wilke saw that the ashes began to smolder and he called the Ridge Fire company to get it back (Continued on Page Seven)

Probe of Wreck Is Made Easy

A Pottstown motorist made it easy for police to investigate his accident and to prosecute him for driving without a licensed operator.

Ray J. Jones, 721 Beech street, called Jeffersonville State police about 10 o'clock yesterday morning to report that his car overturned on State street less than a mile below Route 100 yesterday morning at 2 o'clock.

When State police found that nobody was injured they reported it to Elmer Fritz, Upper Pottsgrove police chief, for investigation.

FRITZ WENT to look at the car at C. Raymond Eppheimer's garage, where it had been towed, and (Continued on Page Seven)

Battle Is Lost By Boy; Dies Of Leukemia

The five-month struggle of a 3 1/2-year-old Pottstown boy against dreaded leukemia ended Saturday noon.

Thomas R. "Tommy" Mann, son of Dr. Arthur F. and Claire L. (Schmidt) Mann, died in his home just 13 days after he returned from a second visit to Children's hospital, Philadelphia.

Tommy suffered intensely during the past week of his illness. Until the fatal, final week he made a brave battle against the strength-sapping disease.

He was admitted this past March 5 to Children's hospital when first stricken with acute leukemia. Tommy gained a reprieve from the swift killer.

Car Hits House, Driver Falls Out

A Pottstown motorist fell from his car when it hit a curb, escaping serious injury, while the vehicle knocked down an iron fence and hit a cement post holding up the roof of a porch at 705 North Charlotte street yesterday at 12:01 a. m.

LeRoy I. Yeager, 35, of 556 Kenneth avenue, was treated at Pottstown hospital dispensary for brush burns of his upper left arm and his left side and discharged.

He told police that he was going south on Charlotte street and that he did not know what happened.

Yeager said he only remembered picking himself up from the (Continued on Page Six)

Mercury Carriers Start a Big Weekend

Forty-one Mercury carriers waved good-bye Saturday morning before boarding a bus which transported them to Atlantic City for a weekend of pleasure at the expense of the newspaper. paper's circulation accompanied the group. Everyone stayed at the Hotel Monticello, saw the Ice Capades, visited the Steel and Million Dollar piers, sailed on the ocean and chatted up a lot of swimming time. The trip was the second of the year for winners of a circulation contest. In May a group of carriers was given an expense-free weekend in New York City at the end of another subscription race.

Informers Mobilized In East Berlin Sector

BERLIN, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Russian sector has mobilized a huge band of informers to catch anyone selling fruit, vegetables and other goods to West Berliners.

The drive is part of an all-out campaign to dry up food sources for West Berlin and force the isolated area to exert an ever-mounting drain on Allied resources.

The crackdown in the East sector was disclosed by the Communist city regime itself today. Its Office for Information said nine food handlers had been fined for selling their products to persons who lacked ration cards. All East sector persons possess them.

The Eastern magistrate extended "congratulations" to informers who detected the sales and notified the "Peoples' police." This kind of watchfulness, the Communists said, would be rewarded.

In Britain the automobile glove compartment is called a "cubby locker."

Matthews Implement Company, Paoli, Sells More Are Attracted Woods Brothers Corn Picker, a Favorite To 'The Corners'

Every year, for many years, and plenty of them, to make this corn picker so strongly preferred. Actually, there are but two reasons, in the broad sense, why the Dearborn-Wood Brothers picker is America's favorite corn picker. Here they are:

1. It picks the field cleaner. The ability of the Dearborn-Wood Brothers picker to get more of the corn in the field adds up to plenty over the years.
2. It delivers cleaner corn for the crib. For the reasons stated, you are assured of getting cleaner corn with hardly a husk showing.

Lubrication Service Saves Dollars; Given At Parking Garage

If the average motorist only realized how much he actually saved in buying replacement parts, in costly garage bills and breakdowns because of not having his car lubricated regularly and new oil put in the crankcase, he would hurry at regular intervals to his service station man and have it attended to.

For tests made show that cars that receive proper lubrication every 1000 miles with new oil of the right grade in the crankcase, do last much longer and cause less trouble.

This is not to mention additional pleasure the car owner gets from a perfectly functioning motor and an automobile without any squeaks in it.

It's just a matter of a few paltry dollars every thousand miles to have this looked after, too!

THE HUSKING rolls in the Dearborn-Wood Brothers corn picker are by no means ordinary rolls. Three of them are rubber, three are steel. Paired off against one another they make an unbeatable combination for fast, clean husking and yet treat the corn gently.

Properly husked corn is extra profit corn. Whether you sell corn from your crib or feed it, makes no difference. The absence of husks and silks is a big factor in avoiding a drop in grade between the time corn goes in and comes out of the crib.

Matthews Implement company, Paoli, Pa., (phone Paoli 2736) sells evening at "The Corners" soon and Ford tractors and Dearborn farm see for yourself why it appeals to equipment. See them about this so many Chester county people! wonder corn picker. You'll like it at "The Corners"!

Ike Might Ask Sen. Taft's Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—"No considerations of party unity can be allowed to detract from the overriding necessity of convincing the people of this country that Eisenhower is leading a renewed party," Case declared.

Taft has never been one to pull his punches, and if he campaigned actively, some of Eisenhower's backers feel there might be a noticeable and even painful divergence in the views expressed by the two men.

On the other hand, some Eisenhower lieutenants are reported worried about the evident failure of many rank and file Taft supporters to rally to the GOP nominee's cause.

Some of these have suggested that Taft, campaigning in such states as Illinois, Ohio and other areas of the Midwest, might make the difference between victory and defeat for the Republican ticket there.

Eisenhower Plans Swift Campaign in 10 Southern Cities

DENVER, Aug. 17 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is planning a swift and unprecedented campaign swing by plane into about 10 cities in at least seven states in traditionally Democratic Dixie, it was learned today.

The tentative schedule calls for the Republican presidential nominee to fly into the South from New York Sept. 2, the days after Labor Day, and spend two or two and a half days bidding for votes.

It will be the first time a GOP nominee ever has moved into the South, ordinarily the stronghold of the Democrats, on such a scale.

And the projected whirlwind plane trip is something new in campaign techniques of presidential candidates.

Details of the swing have not been completely worked out, but Eisenhower aides in close touch with the planning say it is likely the General will speak in these cities:

Richmond, Va.; Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; Jacksonville and Miami, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, Tex.; and Memphis, Tenn.

Senator Scored By Preacher

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP)—A preacher declared from the pulpit today that "a United States Senator" told "a blatant lie" about Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

The Democratic presidential nominee heard the accusation as he sat in a rear pew of the First Presbyterian church of Springfield, attending the regular Sunday service.

The lie charge, by the Rev. Richard Paul Grabel, a close friend of the Governor, quoted a recent remark by Republican Sen. Everett M. Dirksen that Stevenson was "the worst Governor we've had since the turn of the century" in Illinois.

Dirksen made the remark several days ago in an interview after returning from a visit in Denver with Republican presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower.

SONORA, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP)—"I figured I could survive anywhere. I was worried mainly over Bradberry rested rather unneces- sarily in a hospital today after sur- viving seven days alone and lost cheerful dark-haired lad said when in the High Sierra wilderness.

He credited his Boy Scout training with bringing him through the ordeal in fine physical shape.

He also said he had been lucky in finding a bag of dried apricots and two pairs of trousers at an abandoned camp during his wanderings.

The extra trousers gave him warmth as he huddled in beds of pine needles during the freezing nights.

HIS FATHER, who was with one of the far-ranging search parties, had not returned here yet to be reunited with his son at the hospital.

The husky second class Scout from Lynwood, Calif.—too young to qualify as an "Explorer" Scout—had tramped and waded nearly 50 miles through underbrush, choked granite canyons on the north edge of Yosemite National park.

Unaware that bloodhounds were on his trail and that he was the object of a massive search by ground and air, he effected his own rescue when he walked up a camp of three fishermen 35 miles east of Sonora Saturday afternoon.

So isolated is the area that he and the fishermen then had to hike another 10½ hours to report that he was safe late Saturday night.

City, Town Families Spent More in 1950

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—Families living in cities and towns spent more money in 1950 than ever before, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) reported today in a brand new survey of American spending habits.

Preliminary studies indicate, in fact, that they spent about 6 per cent more than they earned.

Total income from all sources, and after payment of personal taxes, average $4309 in 91 cities and towns ranging in size from New York down to places like Demopolis, Ala., and Shenandoah, Iowa.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Air Force has gone on a manpower "diet" and is cutting out more than 7000 "fat" jobs this year.

Soviet 'Brass' Greets Chinese Delegation At Moscow Airport

MOSCOW, Aug. 17 (AP)—A top-level 15-man Chinese Government delegation headed by Premier Chou En-Lai arrived in Moscow tonight for very important talks with Soviet leaders in the Kremlin.

The Chinese party, which came by air from Peiping, included military, diplomatic and economic leaders.

Chou and his colleagues were met at the airport by a group of top Soviet leaders headed by Deputy Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan, Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin, also a deputy premier, and Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinskiy. Molotov, Mikoyan, and Bulganin are members of the politburo of the Russian Communist party.

The top-level reception which the Soviets accorded the Chinese party reflected the importance which Moscow attached to the visitors from Peiping.

New York Central Unions Reject Plan

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—A Federal mediators' plan to end a long-simmering strike threat against the New York Central railroad's eastern lines was rejected tonight by the four unions involved. It had been accepted earlier by the railroad.

The mediators promptly asked that a temporary "status quo" be maintained and called both sides to an emergency meeting in Washington Tuesday.

The unions' response to this plea was not known immediately, but the mediators said they assumed the strike would be called because up at attention and bands played the Soviet and Chinese national anthems.

2 Grimy, Red-Eyed Sergeants Tell of 7 Bunker Hill Attacks

WITH U. S. FIRST MARINE DIVISION, Korea, Monday, Aug. 18 (AP)—Two Marine sergeants, grimy and red-eyed, came off Bunker Hill after three days and three nights of fighting, full of the bitterness of battle and thankful to be alive.

They were two of the many men who stayed off seven fanatical Chinese attempts to recapture the scarred and barren hill. It's more a ridge than a hill, sprawling out between the battle line. When you approach it from any direction you are exposed to both sides.

"I'll tell you how it was," said Sgt. Clarence Wilkins Jr., of Hartford, Conn. "We didn't eat much and we didn't hardly sleep any, and whenever we moved the goonies could see us do it and they'd let us have it with their big guns."

"Once they threw 7000 rounds on us in just a few hours. They came at us in all kinds of attacks. But our boys never gripped about anything."

English Floods Take 12 Lives

LYNNMOUTH, Eng., Monday, Aug. 18 (AP)—Surly floodwaters still surged through a desolated sector of southwestern England's resort coast early today, leaving behind a death toll which local officials feared might reach 34.

Latest official toll from Britain's worst flood disaster in more than 20 years showed:

Known dead, 12.

Missing and presumed dead, 22.

Missing, seven.

The grim tally was being kept by police at nearby Barnstaple as searchers combed a devastated area of 15 square miles, still partly submerged.

Overflow waters which burst the banks of the normally small Lyn river early yesterday were still battering Lynnmouth and Lyn-ton, twin resorts on the Bristol channel. Five other towns were hit. The flood swept down from the neighboring hills, turning the gay resort area into battered ghost towns.

THE CURRENT swept more debris through the battered houses, ripping away walls and tearing out furniture which floated into the sea in a tangled mass.

The level of the water was falling fast along upper stretches of the Lyn, Exe, Bray and other little rivers, but they were still mad torrents near the seashore of Devon and Somerset.

National Banks End Year in Good Shape

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Comptroller's office says the country's national banks ended 1951 healthy and growing.

National banks are those chartered by the Federal government, as distinguished from banks chartered by states. At the end of the past year national banks held slightly over half of the nation's bank deposits, although only 49.9 per cent of the country's 14,635 banks operated under Federal charters.

The office of the Comptroller of Currency, in the Treasury department, controls national banks. The comptroller, Presion Delano, commented on the condition of national banks today in his annual report to Congress.

The report indicated a slower economic tempo during 1951 than in 1950, although most figures continued to grow.

Shortage of Potatoes Is Blamed on Ministers

BERLIN, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Socialist Unity (Communist) party newspaper today blamed two East zone ministers — August Scholz and Karl Hamann — and their underlings for failure of the Soviet zone to plant and harvest enough potatoes.

It was the first time the Communists had put the blame for the potato shortage on themselves. In the past Reds have charged Americans with dropping potato bugs to destroy the East zone crops. But today the newspaper accused Scholz and Hamann of "loafing on the job," doing a "routine performance" and failing to concern themselves with a serious situation.

Study Released Of Red Tactics To Kill Religion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (AP)—The State department today released a study of the tactics by which Communist governments are capturing youth and chaining churches to the state in their drive to kill all religion.

The report, prepared by official experts for use by Government agencies and by private scholars and writers, asserts that the ultimate aim of Communist policy toward religion "is its extinction," but it describes numerous shorter steps aimed to reach that goal by stages.

In one of the primary drives, the study says, religious education for the young has generally been removed from the schedule of church activities and "youth organizations, including those of Catholic youths, have been reorganized into federations which wage a crusade against religion."

Another such step is to make churches subservient to the Communist state, the review states, in the pattern of relations between the Russian Orthodox church and the government of the Soviet Union.

"IN THE case of the Roman Catholic church in the satellites," the report says, "Communist efforts are directed toward creating national Roman Catholic churches which swear loyalty to the state or employees of the state and which have no relations with the Vatican or Western churches and influences."

"It is a general satellite policy," it says, "to attack the church organization and its leaders rather than Christianity itself."

The report recalls that in the past several years a number of Eastern European Red governments have "taken calculated steps to divorce the local Roman Catholic hierarchies completely from Rome and if possible transform them into so-called National Catholic churches" subservient to the Communist state.

"This aim has been partially attained in Romania, Albania and Hungary," it says. "In Czechoslovakia some progress has been made in this direction. In Poland the Government has not been as successful in making inroads upon the unity and integrity of the Episcopate."

Communist methods against the Catholic church vary according to the strength of the church in each country, the report says, adding "where it is strongest, working arrangements are sought; where it is weakest the organization is completely subverted."

When church organizations are ousted under state control, the study said, "appointments to clerical posts from the high to the lowest come from the state or state-approved religious organizations."

Henry Kaiser Says Someone Sabotaged His Two Speedboats

TAHOE, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP)—Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser today said someone tried to kill him by sabotaging two speedboats he had entered in races on Lake Tahoe.

The sabotage was discovered after an hour before race time.

"I'm sure it was an attempt on my life, one of the most diabolical things I've ever seen," Kaiser said. "The industrialist said he did not know who might be responsible, but suspected 'the same people who have tried to destroy everything I've tried to build.' He did not amplify his remark."

Kaiser's mechanic and driver, Max Collins, discovered the sabotage to the 32-foot gold cup racer Metal, which he was to drive, and to a 24-foot runabout Kaiser planned to pilot himself.

THE MAIN drive shaft on the Metal had been hacksawed (sawed) through, and the engine's drive shaft had been stuffed with rags, nuts and bolts. Five gallons of gasoline had been poured into the runabout boat, soaking the engine and filling the bilge.

Either sabotage could have killed somebody," Kaiser said. The drive shaft would have "ripped off and driven to shreds" and the Metal would have "blown out" the gasoline poured into the runabout would have made "fire most certain," he declared.

Golf Tournament, Softball Games Highlight 13-Hour Firestone Picnic at Brookside

By the looks of things here, there was no scarcity of food at the Firestone Tire and Rubber company outing as these hungry picnickers dig their teeth into ears of corn-on-the-cob and the many other delicacies that sagged the tables to sooth the palates of 400 supervisory and technical plant personnel. Enjoying their vittles, from left to right are Charles Donnison, Walter Smith, Jack Sheddick, Bill Benkowski, Nanny Lepreziusa, Bill Fitch and E. S. Weidner.

Four hundred Firestone Tire and Rubber company supervisory and golf tournaments, softball games, technical personnel probably broke quito and horseshoe pitching plus the record for all-day picnics, a variety of delicacies to sooth the Saturday with an affair that got hungry palates of the participants underway at 7 a.m. and lasted 13 hours.

Held at the Brookside country club, the early morning hour continued their link rounds all day with Al Carolla emerging the winner of a sterling silver trophy with a low of 81.

Two dozen golf balls went to Harvey Cooper for stroking in the low net score of the day.

eliminations, the tire department softball team captained by E. H. Hunnicut came through the winner to capture a trophy.

The less athletically inclined, were given the opportunity to indulge in some light eating and drinking prior to the buffet supper which was served at 5:30 p. m. Beer, sandwiches and raw clams were served throughout the afternoon, followed by the big meal at which time the trophies were presented to winners of events.

Although no awards were made to participants in quito and horseshoe-pitching, Ernest T. Handley, plant manager, said, "there was a lot of interest shown in these games and next year we will probably put them on the trophy list."

In the past the annual outing had been held at a golf course near Reading, but Handley said the group was so well accommodated at the country club that in all probability it will be scheduled there in future years.

Handley complimented Paul T. Nowak, chairman of the outing committee, by saying the latter had "done a fine job of arranging all the details for a picnic that was enjoyed by all present."

OBITUARIES

LILLY E. KULP, 70, of 65 Edgewood Street, died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon while on a picnic with the Friendly club at Schlager's park. Reading.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:05 p. m. at Community General hospital in Reading where she was taken by a Junior Fire company ambulance.

Mrs. Kulp was stricken as she and her husband, Emanuel Kulp, were walking through the field day at 2 p. m. from a 404 High house at the park to take their place in line for the cake walk.

She suddenly fell as the couple reached the end of the field house.

A park employee of the city park summoned the ambulance by calling on the telephone directly connected to the Reading city hall.

Mrs. Kulp's death was determined to have resulted from a coronary occlusion for which she had been treated in the past.

Born in New Hanover, she was the daughter of the late Irvin and Sara (Miller) Lennhart. She had lived at 815 North Charlotte street prior to moving to her last address 33 years ago.

Mrs. Kulp was a member of the Swamp Lutheran church, the Dames of Malta and Franklin Herd 1, Lady Reindeer.

Indonesia Celebrates Its Independence Day

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Aug. 17 (AP)—President Soekarno sternly warned Indonesia's 78 million people—celebrating today the seventh anniversary of their declaration of independence—that their young republic faces hard times and tough problems in the years ahead.

His was the only sombre note in the otherwise gay festivities that ranged throughout the thousands of islands that sprawl across the republic's more than 700,000 square mile domain in the southwest Pacific.

Two children were treated at Memorial hospital dispensary Saturday night within a half hour of one another for a fracture and a possible fracture.

Timothy Torrence, 6, Perkiomenville, was given treatment for a fracture of the left forearm. A cast was applied and he was discharged.

The injured boy's father, Robert, said Timothy was hurt when he fell from a sliding board at Sunnybrook.

Michael Braunsberg, 2, of 68 Beech street, was treated at the dispensary for a possible fracture of his right shoulder.

The boy was injured when he fell from a chair at his home.

Henry Kaiser Says Someone Sabotaged His Two Speedboats

TAHOE, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP)—Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser today said someone tried to kill him by sabotaging two speedboats he had entered in races on Lake Tahoe.

The sabotage was discovered after an hour before race time.

"I'm sure it was an attempt on my life, one of the most diabolical things I've ever seen," Kaiser said. "The industrialist said he did not know who might be responsible, but suspected 'the same people who have tried to destroy everything I've tried to build.' He did not amplify his remark."

Kaiser's mechanic and driver, Max Collins, discovered the sabotage to the 32-foot gold cup racer Metal, which he was to drive, and to a 24-foot runabout Kaiser planned to pilot himself.

THE MAIN drive shaft on the Metal had been hacksawed (sawed) through, and the engine's drive shaft had been stuffed with rags, nuts and bolts. Five gallons of gasoline had been poured into the runabout boat, soaking the engine and filling the bilge.

Either sabotage could have killed somebody," Kaiser said. The drive shaft would have "ripped off and driven to shreds" and the Metal would have "blown out" the gasoline poured into the runabout would have made "fire most certain," he declared.

Quarrels would not last long if the fault was only on one side.—Francis, Duc de la Rochefoucauld.

What's Wrong with a Spade?

NOW that skunk fur is skunk, by federal fiat under the new fur-labeling act, and feminine shoppers can no longer bid themselves by buying a good muskrat coat as "river sable," we might consider some other euphemisms of American commerce. There are so many ways of calling a spade a garden tool.

Take wine (although the average American prefers to leave it). Burgundy is a region in France. It has been growing wine for many hundreds of years and produces some of the world's greatest bottles. It also produces some very bad ones.

But good or bad, Burgundy is Burgundy because it grew there. Why, then, label so many bottles of California wine, most of them sound and many of them excellent, as "Burgundy"? It strikes us as the same snob appeal that preferred a muskrat by any other name.

Consider, too, the frequent appearance of "Virginia ham" on menus. The overwhelming majority of those pigs never saw Virginia. The ham is the product of the modern packing house. It is an excellent product that suits most people better than the dark, peanut-flavored ham that actually comes from Smithfield's smokehouses.

The fur-labeling act is aimed at actual cheaters. But we suspect that very few furriers ever tried to convince buyers that there actually was such a coat-bearing critter as a "blue Japanese wolf."

It was a silly dodge to keep 'em happy. Just what has a furrier, a California wine-grower or a Pottstown restaurateur been ashamed of? His customers, perhaps?

More Corruption

THE NEWS has a way of overtaking the Truman administration's attempts to evade the stigma of official corruption.

One part of the line of fast-talk offered voters is that, after all, a rotten apple or two turns up in every barrel; and that corruption is confined to a few agencies.

Then along comes a story from Mineola, N. Y., a Long Island suburb of New York City.

A former office of price stabilization attorney and two OPS investigators were nabbed in the act of accepting a bribe for "fixing" an alleged price ceiling violation in the sale of a used Cadillac automobile.

The picture presented by the Mineola case contrasts with two aspects of the legend frightened Democrats are trying to sell the country.

The fixers were not nominally political appointees. They were civil servants of precisely the type and grade that apologists for Democratic corruption would have us believe to be untouched by official rottenness.

And, lo and behold, the corruptor doesn't fit the picture of the big, bad Republican wolf tempting the poor, little Democratic lamb.

When OPS employees tried to shake him down he called in the police who heard the whole thing through a convenient doorway and arrested the OPS investigators with marked money in their wallets.

The charge of violating a price ceiling still stands against the man who sold his used Cadillac. From all appearances he preferred taking his chances on the charge to being shaken down.

Russia's Pathetic Pride

THE story in the sports section about how a Russian journalist contrived to make his country winner of the Olympic games put the Soviet Union in a light that can only be described as pathetic.

What this Russian pundit did was declare the unofficial point-scoring system null and void, and substitute a system that awarded seven instead of 10 points for each first place. The new system sufficiently discounted American victories to bring the Russians in four points ahead.

It will be interesting to see what the Soviet propaganda mill does with its synthetic "victory" at the Helsinki meeting.

We can't help but wonder at the timidity of the Russian claims. Why didn't they award six points for first place instead of seven? That's why we think this example of Russia's touchy pride is pathetic.

They Mock Economy

WHILE politicians talk of economy in government, the bureaucrats are steadily adding names to the Federal payroll.

The Civil Service Commission reports that last July 1 the number of civilian Federal employees rose to 2,663,300—up 28,900 for June, when more than 1000 were hired each working day.

That's economy in reverse. That's the economy of bureaucracy run wild. It's high time to call a halt.

Greek-Bulgar Clash Alarms U. N. Diplomats

By JOHN FISHER

THE GREEK-BULGAR clash on the tiny island of Gamma is causing military authorities and United Nations diplomats again to turn anxious eyes to Yugoslavia, always the danger spot of the madcap Balkans.

If Moscow means real trouble, it is likely to be aimed at Belgrade.

Ever since Tito broke with Stalin, the vindictive Russian has tried every means short of actual war to destroy the rebel.

Right now the major role of Communist radio is to beam a steady flow of propaganda vituperation on Yugoslavia. Espionage agents are sabotaging public works and communications. Border incidents, including bloodshed, kidnapping and brutality, are common.

Tito, in a recent speech to the Association of Yugoslav Reserve Officers, warned, "Comrades, new conflagrations are springing up, which at any time may burst into a hot war. This applies in particular to us, for they are gnashing their teeth at us from all sides. It behooves us to be strong so as to be able to smash their teeth if they attack us."

In a press conference with visiting American correspondents in March Tito pointed out that in his opinion the reason why the Soviet Union has hesitated to strike is its fear of causing a world war.

He added that the rearmament of the West diminishes the chances of aggression.

THE KREMLIN realizes that it would be no easy task now to leap upon Yugoslavia. American arms and the output of local munition factories are reaching the tough Yugoslav army.

Although Tito, for political reasons, is reluctant to join NATO, informal military exchanges have been made between him, Greece and Turkey. Except for the old dispute with Italy over Trieste, Yugoslavia at last is on good terms with all non-Communist neighbors.

Despite this summer's drought which reduced the grain crop, unbiased reports indicate that internally Yugoslavia is in better shape. It is trying to develop its own heavy industries. But to pay for imported weapons, it must export a large share of its raw materials, especially corn, which retards its own industrialization.

Nevertheless, progress is noticeable. Store windows are filled with pottery, glassware, leather goods and silks. Today bread, butter, ham, sausages, and cheese are abundant.

The rub is high prices. To earn enough money to buy things, husbands and wives both work. They now say in Belgrade that a young man no longer seeks a bride only; he hunts for both a suitable wife and mother-in-law, so the latter can run the home and manage the children.

People breathe easier since some of the harshest state disciplines have been removed by the government. The Russian pattern of rigid bureaucratic centralization has been changed. Citizens are given much more latitude in voicing opinions, which in earlier days would have caused instant arrest.

INSTEAD OF enforced collectivization, the tendency is for free markets and the ending of compulsory state purchase of farm products at prices below production costs.

A strong reason for this reform is the antipathy of peasants to collective farming. But the government itself now recognizes that farmers and factory workers produce better if allowed more self control.

The religious problem is still unsettled. Bigwig Communists feel that the church teaches superstition and try to wear it from the Vatican and Orthodox beliefs. The clergy continues to urge the people to maintain their old faith. Despite the unhealed breach between church and state, in some areas party members now get married and have their children baptized in church.

Yugoslavia's Communist neighbors watch closely and take advantage of every incident of disunity and weakness. Communist agents have fomented strikes among railroad, factory and dockworkers.

Hollywood

By EDITOR GWYN

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Joanne Dru wouldn't explain that big, black eye she sported around here a few weeks ago. So she probably won't talk about the luffs she and John Ireland are staging on their current stage tour...

Because of Fred Allen's ailment (more serious than supposed) H. R. Shriver will headline "Two for the Money," which was to have been Fred's fall TV series. Loovooe Shriver's "information" that "our new atomic submarine will surface every two years. To give the sailors a chance to re-enlist..."

It attempts to hush it all up, there'll be quite a mess following the fistfights between Bert Frenkel and a member of his company filming "The Star" (the Belle Davis-Sterling Hayden starrer). Fight occurred while making scenes in a big department store here (other day).

ALAN LADD and Gregory Peck insist they're not staying abroad the whole eighteen months necessary to take advantage of that huge tax-savings. We think they're kidding. Unless Peck comes back for the prime role in "The Robe," he has plenty to keep him busy in Europe indefinitely. Ditto for Ladd, who heads overseas for "Red Beret" and "The White South"—and as many movies as he chooses to make in far away places...

Any pain Constantine Smith may be having over the imminent break with her British groom, is being well soothed by dapper Dan Dailey.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE, almost recovered from the serious illness following the birth of her second baby, is not only doing her own housework, but moving her own lawn these days—and loving it. # Liquor License at $9500...

New Spots Sought...

★ SALOON EDITOR—It's amazing what a liquor license is peddled for. Dope locally is that a license to do giggle water biz in Pottstown runs as high as $9500.

When Charley Jacobs had to move out of his well known Railroad house site on South Hanover and Queen streets, the Pottstown bistro keeper couldn't use his license at a new site he rented at 197 High street (the old High street bar). Pennsylvania Liquor control board issues hotel licenses and bar licenses. Jacobs' license was for a hotel and he couldn't use it for a bar. So he bought a bar license. Tommy Zellers, the Mer-chants hotel manager, had one available. Jacobs is said to have paid close to $9500 for the Zellers paper. He still retains his hotel license and may be able to negotiate its sale within a year, time allowed by the liquor control people...

MORE—Stanley N. Doukas, partner in Stanley's Texas Luncheonette, 154 High street, recently obtained a liquor license when Pottstown's population increased. There's one license per 1000 inhabitants permissible. Pottstown, with its more than 22,000 citizens, therefore can have 22 tap-room licenses. Gossip along the night-club circuit has it that some promoters are trying to locate a North End location suitable for dispensing fizzy water... William R. Mundell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mundell, 409 West Second street, Birdsboro, received the degree of bachelor of science in economics from Albright college, Reading, at informal commencement exercises marking the end of the Summer session Saturday.

MODERN WAYS—Atomic science, while new, is becoming a daily watch-word, almost. Now they're teaching our service men the latest in atomic science. Donald J. Toth, seaman, USN, son of Mrs. Mary Swinehart, 331 King street, has reported to Norfolk, Va., for a course of instruction in radiological defense. The course acquaints the student with atomic theory and teaches the use of equipment and procedures to be employed in event of an atomic attack. On completing the course Toth will return to his ship, the heavy cruiser USS Macon. He entered the naval service in Nov., 1951, and received his recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training center, Bainbridge, Md. Before entering the service, he attended Pottstown High school.

TRAVELER—The Rev. Arthur H. Simpson, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian church, is visiting in Santa Barbara, Calif... Calling all First Division veterans! This famous Army outfit that made history in World Wars I and II, is staging its 24th annual convention in Atlantic City, Sept. 5, 6 and 7. Albert Prince, Mansion house proprietor, is calling all vets of this outfit to join him in going to the reunion... Sickened by that fish smell when your husband brings home a big hatch to clean? There's a new waterless hand cleaner with chlorophyll on the market. It's said to remove fish odor.

BOON—The British say they've developed a moisture-proof glass for windshields. A thin transparent sheet of metal oxide between two plates of glass does the trick. The metal oxide conducts electricity, heating the glass and drying up the moisture... A company in England also has produced a gas-tight auto which made 152 miles an hour in Belgian trials with no sway or wobble. It has one two controls, an accelerator and a brake, and can run on gasoline, kerosene or diesel oil... What do you women do with your time? Increased use of processed foods is saving two hours a day for homemakers; that's an extra 120 minutes daily leisure time.

100 Lodge Members Attend Mass in Body

Approximately 100 members of the Maria Assunta lodge attended a solemn high mass in observance of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Aloysius Catholic church.

The attendance of the members in a group was scheduled as the final phase of the lodge's observance of the Assumption, for which the lodge is named.

After attending Mass Friday, a holiday in the church, the members conducted a block party Friday and Saturday nights in front of the lodge, 379 Cherry street.

Decorating the altar as the Rev. George Miller celebrated the Mass assisted by the Rev. Francis A. Donovan as deacon and the Rev. Joseph Mullins, OSA, as sub-deacon, were flowers donated by the lodge.

KC'S PICNIC—

Introduction, he had put her out at first base and she jokingly stuck her tongue out at him for doing so.

NO ONE drove home from the picnic hungry. The 400 ate more than 1000 hot dogs and downed 1 1/2 barrels of beer, in addition to hundreds of pounds of other food brought by family groups. The children alone finished off quickly a vendor's supply of several hundred cotton candy cones.

Lawrence M. Moyer Jr., who with Kenneth Koury, Albert M. Yonessa and Anthony F. Rodgers had arranged the outing, claimed Grand Knight William O. Smith would have won a pie-eating contest in which Mrs. Lillian Piazza, president of the council's auxiliary, was the other contestant, if he had not tripped so long to chew his pie.

Another contest, this between husbands and wives, that evoked considerable laughter was one in which the wives attempted to douse lighted cigars clenched between the lips of their husbands.

More water hit the men's eyes, noses and necks than the cigars before the contest ended.

John Ibach Jr., 112 Warren street, thought the picnic all wet after he fell into the splash pool set aside for toddlers. The youngster's view changed, however, when his parents drove him home so he could don dry clothing, then returned with him to the outing.

who was burned alive."

Frank Wunderlich, 15, of Douglassville, was fascinated by the gentleman reposing alive in a "grave," too, but mentioned him only after noting that the Ice Capades were fine and the swimming was, too, even if the water was "a bit chilly."

He also asserted that "one of the most interesting things were the girls." And, oh yes, he liked dining out (in the hotel), too.

DONALD NEFF, 15, of 108 River road, South Pottstown, found "the meals were well planned and we had plenty to eat." He also discovered "the girls were nice" and the tours of the piers were "hard on the feet."

Thomas Hermbach, 339 North Washington street, said:

"The thing I liked best about Atlantic City were the girls. 'The vaudeville which was very good, is the main attraction on Steel pier,' he added.

"I liked Steel pier the most," said William Neiman, 442 Lincoln avenue. "They have two theaters." After describing the theaters, he added, as an afterthought, "also liked to watch the girls."

William Gabel, 15, of Boyertown, enjoyed the Ice Capades most, but swimming and the young girls on the beach at the time he was there were likeable, too.

HIS STOMACH had priority over the sob of Johnny Ray, he indicated. "We could have seen Johnny Ray, but preferred eating at the time. I had a swell time and for my sake I could have stayed longer."

Ronald Heckman, 14, of 212 South Washington street, Boyertown, said he liked the Ice Capades and dining out, then added, "The girls were swell, too."

He noted, too, that dinner was preferable to Johnny Ray. "We had a swell time and had lots of fun," he concluded.

Bunche Believes Chances For Peace Improving

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Dr. Ralph Bunche, 1950 Nobel peace prize winner, said tonight he believes the chances for peace are getting better every day.

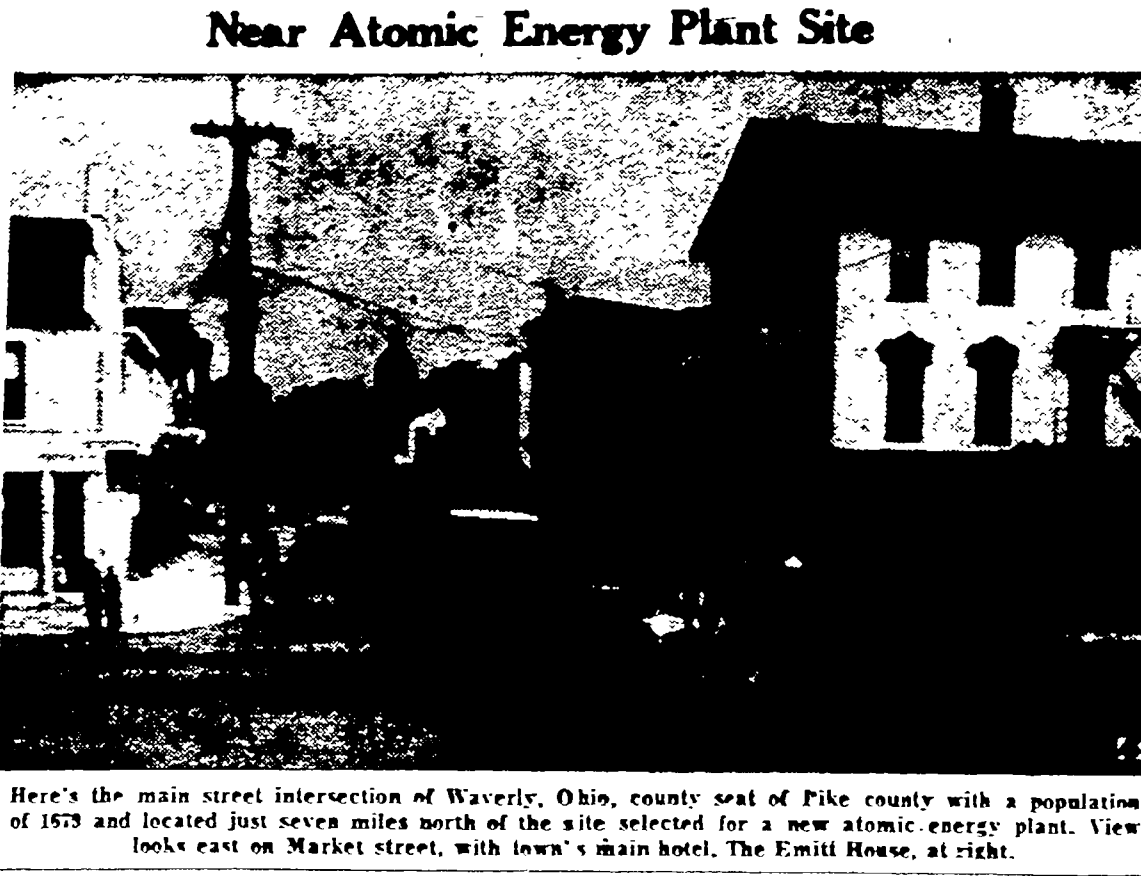

"I can say quite truthfully and sincerely that I believe they are better now than they were a year or two ago or two years ago," said Dr. Bunche, who is the United Nations trusteeship director.

In a television interview (CBS "Man of the Week"), Dr. Bunche said "a very great complacency, a tremendous apathy" prevailed in June, 1950, at the time South Korea was invaded by the Communists.

Faith Conference Urges Unity of Religious Beliefs

LUND, Sweden, August 17 (AP)—Theologians representing the world's divided churches, were warned tonight that the movement for a united Christendom is in danger unless they took more effective steps toward their common goal.

Addresses at the Third World Conference on Faith and Order held at Lund university during the last two days, have emphasized that the movement toward church unity stands at the crossroads and that there is a need for fresh thought to break away from the merry-go-round of talk in which each church has been explaining itself to the others.

cis Maile, Oaks union president, who has been there for the past ten weeks having returned twice during that period to report to the local membership.

A unanimous vote in favor of striking if the company failed to meet the demands of the workers was taken July 14 and 15.

Goodrich offered a 10-cent an hour pay increase but the disagreement has arisen on fringe issues. The 10-cent pattern was set a week ago by the company and since has been used in new contracts signed at U.S. Rubber company, General Tire and Rubber company, and Seiberling Rubber company.

The fringe issues were said by the union to involve holiday pay, grievance procedure, reporting for work pay, vacations and other matters.

A company spokesman said it is not true that Goodrich had proposed "contract provisions which are less liberal than those in our old contracts."

The strike would be the first authorized one to be called against Goodrich since Aug. 27, 1949.

Eight members of the Pottstown chapter, Aircraft Owners and Pilots association, and their eight guests flew in six airplanes to Swatara Valley airport yesterday morning and spent the day at the Twin Groves amusement park near Jonestown.

The park is owned by one of the pilots, Harold Yerges.

The group took off from Municipal airport between 10:30 and 11 o'clock and returned late in the afternoon.

Next group flight of the chapter will be Sept. 14. Destination of that flight has not been decided. The pilots are planning to attend the AOPA "roundup" at Rehoboth Beach, Del., next month in which pilots along the Eastern seaboard participate annually. The "roundup" is a weekend affair.

Car, Cab Collide; Hit High School Fence

A sedan collided with a taxicab at Walnut and Penn streets Saturday at 9:30 a.m. and the impact hurled the two vehicles against a street sign standard and the iron fence at the Senior High school.

Lawrence L. Focht, 710 Walnut street, was operating a Harp Taxi company vehicle north on Penn street and was struck by an auto driven by E. Gebhart Zollers, 852 Queen street, going west on Walnut street.

Focht reported to Motor Patrolman Earl Rhoads, who investigated the accident, that he was in the middle of the intersection when Zollers' car hit his cab and pushed him into the standard and the fence.

Zollers told Rhoads that the cab was going fast and "flew right in front of me and I could not avoid hitting it."

The entire right side of the cab was damaged and the front end of the sedan was smashed.

Demonstration Is Given Of Angular Trombone

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP)—An angular trombone, which slides sideways instead of up and down, was used here today in the world premiere of Tibor Serly's concerto for trombone chamber orchestra.

Davis Shuman, a member of the faculty at Juilliard School of Music in New York city and designer of the instrument, was soloist. Franco Qamr, its associate conductor of the New York Philharmonic, conducted the Chautauqua Symphony orchestra.

Shuman said this trombone, which angles off to the right, was designed to aid youngsters who must stretch and strain to reach the low positions on a standard instrument. The angular designs shorten the length of arm required, he explained.

Charles H. Stetler Dies

Stetler moved to The Reading Eagle where he learned to operate the linotype machine, the printing number of 30 years ago.

In 1899 he returned to The Daily News to operate their first linotype and remained with the company until 1933 when The Mercury bought out The Daily News.

FOR MORE than 20 years Mr. Stetler, a mechanical wizard, was composing room foreman for The Daily News. During those years he doubled as an advertising salesman and layout man.

He had rare ability as an advertising layout man. Many of his ads were collected on scraps of paper which he transposed into accurate, balanced ads.

When The Daily News moved in 1926 from 17 North Hanover street to the present Mercury building, King and Hanover streets, Stetler planned the mechanical department on the second floor.

An excellent linotype operator, he could tear down and reassemble any piece of equipment in the print shop and composing room. Even after he became a permanent advertising man in 1935 he remained in close touch with the mechanical developments of the day.

When William M. Hester, president, and Shandy Hill, general manager, formed The Mercury in 1931, Stetler offered his advice to the new company.

IN 1933 when the two papers consolidated he remained with The Mercury. After a brief hitch with new management he departed for The Pottstown Herald.

In Oct. 1935 Mr. Stetler returned to his old employers but at a new desk. From then until this past April he devoted his layout talents back of an advertising desk at The Mercury.

As a printer's devil, and in the early days of the century, he worked as many as 18 hours a day. Many of the early merchants in Pottstown had implicit faith in him as an advertising man.

When the King and Hanover streets plant was under construction he made a special trip to the Duplex Printing plant in Michigan to study their latest printing equipment.

Printers spoke well of Mr. Stetler. His old-time friends from the composing room testify he was a fair and square boss.

IN ADVERTISING, Mr. Stetler's comrades marveled at his ability to turn a mass of hieroglyphics into a finished ad.

One of his last mechanical interests was the teletypesetter installed by The Mercury this past Spring to set major league baseball box scores.

The teletypesetter is a mechanical apparatus attached to a linotype machine, through which tape is fed. The tape is punched with a series of holes, each of which represents a character. The tape then operates the linotype machine without the services of an operator.

Although Mr. Stetler was keenly interested in the new apparatus and wanted to see it in operation, he had to leave his job just when the teletypesetter was starting in operation.

A teletotaler, Mr. Stetler smoked cigars with gusto and chewed plug and rough cut tobacco, a habit synonymous with the print shop 50 years ago. A third habit: chewing cigars.

Mr. Stetler's last dog "Tiny" died about a year ago. A canine admirer, he owned a dog most of his life. "Tiny" was mostly rabbit hound.

TWENTY YEARS AGO the amiable printer would stroll on the banks of local streams with rod and reel, but in recent years he confined his extra-curricular activities

160 Adventist Youths End Summer Camp Training at Earlville

One hundred and sixty Seventh-day Adventist youths from all parts of eastern Pennsylvania yesterday closed their annual junior Summer training camp at the Pottstown Community camp, near Earlville.

At worship services Saturday morning, guest speaker was Elder Arthur Patzer, youth director for the Columbia Union Conference, Washington, D. C. Activities of the campers were climaxed Saturday night at a special campfire service, which included the showing of motion pictures.

An adult staff of nearly 30 persons stayed on yesterday to help camp Director Lynn R. Callender, close camp and ready it for the next group of campers.

This camp, sponsored by the East Pennsylvania Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, is one of the Adventists church for the past 75 Summer camps operated by the few years.

The local site has been used by the Adventists church for the past 75 Summer camps operated by the few years.

Man Awaits Hearing On Wife's Complaint

Arthur Blakey, 566 Walnut street, was arrested in borough hall by Sgt. Thomas A. Lawler at 11 o'clock last night on drunk and disorderly conduct and assault and battery charges filed by his wife, Vivian.

Lawler, on duty at the police desk, made the arrest when Blakey entered borough hall and asked if the police were looking for him. Lawler had had police in a patrol car watching for him after Mrs. Blakey obtained a warrant earlier in the evening for her husband's arrest.

Blakey will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Kelley, of the Second ward, at 6:30 o'clock tonight in borough hall.

Barn Is Destroyed

burned off in six or seven places and that the heat of the fire was not intense enough to cause such burns in the hard copper.

Selwyn reported that when he examined the other wiring in the barn only the insulation was burned off and the wire portions were intact.

He reasoned that if the flames had been hot enough to melt the metal on the thick lightning rod they would have also melted the copper wiring.

The fire officials reported that all that was left standing of the ancient farm practices and equipment yesterday were the stone walls at each end of the barn.

165 Indian Villages Will Be Transformed

NEW DELHI, Aug. 17 (AP)—Eighty specialists completed their training today for the big task of transforming 165 Indian villages into modern self-supporting communities.

Prime Minister Nehru urged them to undertake the three-year reconstruction scheme with the "fire and zeal of a crusader in the great and noble cause."

Fifty-five projects are involved in the community development program affecting a rural population of twelve million persons whose all that was left standing of the ancient farm practices and equipment yesterday were the stone walls at each end of the barn.

LEUKEMIA VICTIM—

night, "While it lasted he had a very fine remission."

Under the care of Dr. Joseph Stokes, medical chief of Children's hospital, Tommy improved rapidly. But physicians held little hope for the boy's battle against the incurable disease.

After two weeks he returned home in good spirits. The disease was arrested until Easter when Tommy entered Pottstown hospital for three days during which a series of blood transfusions gained another remission.

This past Aug. 4 he returned to Children's hospital, this time for a last-ditch battle. He returned to his home this Thursday with all hope of life gone.

Three weeks ago the Manns took Tommy to the Poconos during the intense heat wave which broke over the borough. Dr. Mann said, "The heat really bothered him."

ACUTE LEUKEMIA pays no respect to age. It is a malignant disease characterized by bleeding. As long as drugs can slow the disease transfusions can prolong life.

The disease is particularly prevalent among children. In chronic leukemia the remission may be much longer, especially in adults.

Yesterday Tommy's brother, Stephen E., 2, played at his home. He couldn't realize the cause or consequences of his brother's death.

Tommy was a member of First Presbyterian Sunday school.

Besides his parents he is survived by Stephen, his maternal grandparents, Richard E. and Mary M. Schmidt Sr., Philadelphia, and his paternal grandparents, Edgar O. and Miriam K. Mann, Bethlehem.

Services will be conducted from First Presbyterian church, High and Evans streets, on Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Officiating will be the Rev. Eli F. Wismer Jr., pastor of Llanerch Presbyterian church, Llanerch, Pa. Interment will be in Highland Memorial park.

Easy Elegance

The afternoon dress is back, not the dressy overdone version or the simple little black frock, but a dress that is elegant, yet easy to wear. Christian Dior, for his New York collection shows several such dresses, of which this is an excellent example. Gray alpaca-alaine is the fabric of the dress and it has black velvet double collar and cuffs. The fairly full skirt has front and back center pleats and side pockets.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Wedded Wallflowers

"We want friends!" That's the surprising cry of a young couple who ought to have lots of friends, for they're young, happily married, parents—a status which usually insures many friends among other parents—and indubitably intelligent and alert.

What's the matter, then, that these two seem unable to "find themselves" in the world of people? To become an integral part of a congenial group whose members have fun together?

It's the man of the house who speaks out on the plight of himself and his wife, and asks for advice. His story is that at 23 and 22, he and his wife have been married for five years and have "two wonderful children." He then goes on to say:

"We move in a very limited social circle, as those in our own age group are still either single or without children, and we seem unable to attain a common interest with them. We don't seem able to adjust with those in our own classification, either—that is, those who are married and parents—as all of them are a good deal older than we are.

"Both my wife and I are quiet and reserved. I guess you'd call us introverts. To complicate this, I work days, of course, and almost every night either at school or studying, so we aren't able to get out very often. As a result, we're not invited out much.

"When we do go out more than once with newly-acquired friends, we just can't seem to get along with them. We don't feel, or act, superior, and we try our best to fit in. But either my wife or I can't stand one or the other of any couple we meet. It's come to the point now where we can't really enjoy anyone, and we feel we're definitely in the wrong.

How does one set about looking for his social assets when he seems to have so many liabilities? Do we have an inferiority complex, and if so, how can we possibly overcome it?"

Well, first, I think these two might ask themselves if the young husband may not, perhaps, be overdoing the studying. While it is perfectly true and reasonable, that many young people may need to do a certain amount of such studying in order to equip themselves for a special career, it is really necessary for this young man to keep his nose in his books so continuously that he and his wife become hermits, as seems to have happened? Could there be any possibility that such complete absorption is an indication of a subconscious desire to escape the effort of making and cultivating social contacts? I think this is definitely something to which he should give honest consideration.

But whether it is sheer necessity or a rationalizing of a desire to keep away from people that has pinned him so firmly against the wall he has erected between himself and the outside world, it seems to me his routine most certainly needs an overhauling. Remembering that old saying, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," he should consider whether or not his preoccupation may not actually

Afternoon Companion

With the revival of the afternoon dress and the little black silk number, comes the suede bag in both simple and lavish versions. Striking a nice balance between these extremes is this one which is simple enough yet smart enough to appear for dress-up wear all day. Josef does it in ultra fine suede and gives it something new, a pivot-type self-handle that facilitates carrying and opening.

Neat Woolen

New techniques and new processes, have brought new flavor, charm and interest to woolknits. Barbara Carol does a handsome two-piece suit that is prepared to be the backbone of any daytime wardrobe. It is all wool, and the top details include a convertible neckline, bat wing sleeves and an ombre yoke effect, the latter repeated in the belt. The skirt features a new knitting process that not only simulates pleating but that defies sag and bag. A fine jersey stitch is used to achieve the effect of fabric and gentle figure fit.
